FAIRBANKS AND BEVERIDGE AMONG THOSE WHO MADE ADDRESSES.

Senior Indianian Discussed "Ohio in such word as foreign. We measure to-day War" and Mr. Beveridge "Our Foreign Possessions."

NEW YORK, March 1 .- The Ohio Society to-night celebrated its sixteenth anniversary by a banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria. Eleven United States senators, seven of whom at some time had been citizens of in her task of a God-given work? We will the Buckeye State, were among the guests

Colgate Hoyt, president of the society, was the toastmaster. About four hundred guests were present. Among those at the guests' table were Colgate Hoyt, with Senator Hanna and Senator Foraker on either side of him, Attorney General P. C. Knox, Senator William B. Allison, of Iowa; Senator J. P. Jones, of Nevada; Senator C. W. Fairbanks, of Indiana; Lieut. Gen. Nelson | perfect the best administration human A. Miles, Solicitor General Richards, Congressman C. H. Grosvenor, Senator A. J. Beveridge, of Indiana; Senator N. B. Scott, of the world. We are to-day a determin- tember. of West Virginia; Assistant Attorney Gen- ing quanity in governing the world. No eral James M. Beck, Maj. Gen. J. H. Wilson, Lieutenant Governor Timothy L.

The speakers and their subjects were: Senator Foraker, "Ohio in the Senate;" Senator Hanna, "Capital and Labor;" Assistant Attorney General Beck, "The United States;" Senator Fairbanks, "Ohio in War:" Senator Beveridge, "Our Foreign Possessions;" Lieutenant Governor Woodruff, "The State of New York," and Augustus Thomas, "Our Sister Societies."

Attorney General Knox, though not on He spoke highly of President Roosevelt, and, referring to Cuba, said: "Even to-day President Roosevelt is giving his best efforts and energy to prove that we have not left this poor alien southern nation to poverty and distress." Senator Foraker called Senator Sherman the greatest of all of Ohio's great men and then paid a compliment to Senator Hanna, who was the next speaker. He was introshores of Lake Erie and had been chief in developing the industries of Ohio, but who had greater satisfaction in knowing that he had, through the concerns he represented, paid out $64,000,000 in wages. He said in part: "Surely Ohio is an incubator of statesmen, and equally is great in producing great men. When we look back fifty years we are almost struck speechless with what has been done by the American people. Figures and statistics can tell no Hes, and according to these the American people stand unequaled by any nation in men who are at the head of our industrial concerns at one time worked at the shovel and at the puddle. It is an aristocracy of Mastings fire department arrived in time is not strange that the question of capital and labor is, by its own impetus, forcing itself to the front. If the men who do things are contributing to the wealth of the Nation, then these men of brawn are as much entitled to consideration as the men who think and supply the capital." Senator Hanna then referred to the work of the Civic Federation arbitration committee and said: "And right here on this public occasion I want to thank the great press of the United States for all it has done to bring the capitalist and the laborer heart to heart. When this is accomplished there is no such word as fail. When this is accomplised we will begin to lay the foundation of our future greatness." Senator Hanna's speech was received with great enthusiasm. The diners stood up and cheered him again and again. Assistant Attorney General Beck spoke facetiously of the well-known penchant of Ohio men for office and the coming supremacy of them in the councils of the Senator Fairbanks told of Ohio's work in the civil war and mentioned by name the soldiers and statesmen who came from Ohio during the last forty years.

"Foreign Possessions" was the toast responded to by Senator Beveridge. He said in part: "The first word in the toast assigned to me is obsolate. In the brightest lexicons of modern history there is no not by miles but by accessibility. Manila to-day is closer to us than was San Francisco in 1850. The ocean connects us with our portunity. The races of to-day are face to face. The word foreign no longer fits the case when used as it is in this toast. Our estates are at our very doors. Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines are nothing more than our trust estates. Shall we be recreant to that trust? Russia is loing her work in Manchuria. Germany is loing her share in China. Shall America, the youngest and the strongest of all, fail work out the problem before us, not with a rashness, not with impatience, but with moderation and conservatism. We will move as adaptability may suggest. "American suzerainty in Cuba will never cease except by annexation. American suzerainty in Porto Rico will never cease except by closer relations, and American suzerainty will never cease in the Philippines except by a closer and warmer love and loyalty for the American flag. We shall best follow the examples set for us by the great nations of the world and profit by their experiences. We will mind has yet devised. In good season we will show that Americans, the best selfgovernors, will be the best administrattors nation takes a step without first consulting the United States. We shall be the unrivaled leaders in justice and power. Amerca will never abandon the mission upor which Ohio's greatest son started.'

St. Paul's Incorrect Assertion. The Outlook

A number of letters have been received asking on what authority we said, in reference to St. Paul's statement that man was made before woman (I Timothy ii, 13), that we know it is not so. As the inquirers seem to prefer biblical evidence, Genesis i, 27, is in point, the obvious sense of which is that the sexes appeared simultaneously, as science affirms. The inconsistency with this the list of speakers, was first introduced. of the following story of the separate creation of woman forbids it to be literally interpreted. It must be understood as symbolical of the congeniality and unity of the Eden pair as if one in flesh and bone. ROSEBERY AND THE LIBERALS

HOW HIS LORDSHIP'S NEW CAMPAIGN IS REGARDED.

Intimation that the London Times Is Controlled by the Rothschilds-No Gewgaws for Mr. Hogg.

LONDON, March 1.-Influenza has London at its mercy. So centered had the interest been in the smallpox epidemic that this latest and perhaps more formidable scourge gained acendency with scarcely a breath of publicity. Yet a large percentage of politicians, business men, social leaders and divines are incapacitated from attending to their regular duties. From all sides come reports of increasing numbers of cases. The warm, wet weather of the past week was particularly favorable to the grip, and the large percentage of deaths from this cause shows the virulence of the epidemic. Half a dozen members of the government, including A. J. Balfour, the government leader in the House of Commons, are laid up. Sir Thomas Lipton, Lord Roberts and about thirty members of the House of Commons and other notable people are among the sufferers. The Earl of night, is the latest notable victim.

and prospects of the new Liberal movement under the auspices of Lord Rosebery would be to solve a puzzle which has every politician in Great Britain by the ears. The Associated Press, however, is able to announce that far more powerful influences than appear on the surface are at work in behalf of that curious, yet all important development which has ensued upon Lord Rosebery's re-entrance into public life. The attitude of the London Times, already noted in these dispatches, continues to such an extent that this Unionist organ deliberately takes up the cudgels in behalf of Lord Rosebery as against the Duke of Devonshire, who himself is only half hearted in his opposition to his former leader. Yet so imbued are the British press and public with the tradition that the Times could never oppose a Conservative government that these outspoken utterances pass almost without comment, and such comment as exists is confined to "the man in the street," who somewhat fearfully whispers, "Do you think it is possible that the Times is going back on the government?" An explanation of this was afforded by one of Lord Rosebery's fellow-peers who is a personal friend of the former premier, though opposed to him in politics. He said: "I believe it is quite true that the Rothschilds now own a half interest in the Times. We (the speaker is a member of the government) can no longer rely on the Times's support and can only deduce that the Rothschilds intend to back up Lord Rosebery's movement with all their millions and the other resources

Lord Rosebery's family connection with the Rothschilds (Lord Rosebery married Hannah de Rothschild, the eldest daughter and heiress of Baron Meyer de Rothschild) and their frequent outspoken dissatisfaction with the financial and internal policy of the present Cabinet, strengthens the supposition, and the statement of the peer, above quoted, would stand against any number of formal denials and means far more than mere schism in the Liberal party. This accentuated danger is palpably appreciated in inner Cabinet circles, though it is overlooked or intentionally ignored by the leading Conservative organs allied with the Rothschilds. It is said there are several other papers in London waiting for a favorable opportunity to come out

A curious light has been thrown on the remount scandals by a high officer of the government, who says that, whatever the House of Commons. According to this statement, one member sent in a bid for horses, which was refused in favor of a Newmarket dealer. Against the latter the disappointed bidder and several racing members of the House of Commons had bitter grudges. A cabal was formed, quite regardless of party lines, and a determination was arrived at to make the government suffer for giving contracts to a man who was not in favor with the aristocratic parliamentary racing set. These personal grievances apparently had long been common talk in the lobby of the House of Commons, and the batt thrown to the opposition by the disgruntled Unionists was eagerly taken up, with the resulting exposition of the horse scandals.

XXX On the best informed opinion the Pall Mall Gazette prophesies the end of all serious hostilities in South Africa by September, and this is rather a pessimistic than an optimistic view. Lord Kitchener reports to-day that the Boer casualties during the recent operations amounted to 800 men killed or captured. General De Wet's son, who is among the prisoners, was his father's secretary. A casualty list, published last night, gives the names of 118 men who were wounded in the convoy affair. The list of the killed has not yet been received. In detail the Boer losses were fifty men killed, ten men wounded and 759 unwounded men made prisoners. In addition to these Lord Kitchener says that it is reported that over a hundred Boers, killed or wounded, were carried off after the attack on the blockhouse line Feb. 24. These figures, however, cannot be verified, so they are not included in the total of $19. Apart from the losses of the New Zealanders the other British casua ties were only one officer killed and four men wounded.

All the arrangements had been completed with the United States ambassador, Joseph Choate, to enable the well-known Texan to be presented to King Edward at the forthcoming levee. A hitch occurred, however, for Mr. Hogg found he must appear in knee breeches, sword, etc., the regulation court dress. "Never!" said Mr. Hogg. "If I cannot appear in the ordinary evening dress of an American citizen I will not appear at all. A pretty sight I would look rigged up in those gewgaws. xxx Twenty-two bank notes stolen from the American Express Company's Paris office a couple of years ago have been recovered here. John Lewis and a companion were arrested last evening on the charge of having illegal possession of the notes. Lewis admitted the charge and handed over the property to the express company. It is expected that all the stolen notes have now been recovered. A passport was found in Lewis's pocket connecting him with "Laterne," now in custody at Berlin on a similar charge. The prisoners were remanded at the Bow-street Police Court this morning.

NEW YORK, March 1.-Charles Lilly White, the American arrested in New Zealand for a murder, where he was lodged in jail for several months, sails Saturday, cables the London correspondent of the Herald, on the St. Paul, on his way back to New Zealand. Charles Lilly White's vindication and the reparation made to him by the British government came too late, however, for that member of his family who followed his trial with the keenest interest, for Mr. White has just buried his aged mother, who died on Wednesday. The British government paid Mr. White $3,000, and tickets for the whole route of his return trip were sent him through the American embassy.

The colonel was entertaining some of his friends with stories of army life, and the talk turned to the inflexibility of orders. That reminded the colonel of Tim Murphy's

Murphy had enlisted in the cavalry service, although he had never been on a horse in his life. He was taken out for drill with other raw recruits under command of a sergeant, and, as luck would have it, secured one of the worst buckers in the whole troop. mount without orders from a superior officer. Remember that. Tim was no sooner in the saddle than he was hurled head over heels through the air, and came down so hard that the breath was almost knocked out of him "Murphy," shouted the sergeant, when he discovered the man spread out on the ground, "you dismounted!"

If Ambassador White had been in the United States during the last few years he would not think it necessary to deny the existence of "Deutschen Hetze" in this country. The international attitude of Germany is well understood here and highly respected. We find no fault with the Emperor's commercial ambition and do not fear German trade rivalry. We recognize the absolute correctness of German neutrality during the Spanish war and can excuse the zeal of German naval officers, who lacked knowledge of the traditions Captain Chisester quaintly described as "sea manners." There is no bitterness towards Germany in this country. On the contrary, there is a great deal of kindly feeling, as Prince Henry will soon learn.

Several slides have occurred to-day in the vicinity, but so far as known there has been no loss of life. The Gold King mine was closed to-day on account of a slide, which carried away 250 feet of snow shed, leaving the mine building unprotected.

The most lucid account of the first snow-slide, which carried away the boarding and bunk houses, and other buildings of the Liberty Bell mine in Cornet Creek basin, three and a half miles north of this city, and buried their occupants in the gulch under masses of snow and debris, was given by L. M. Umstead, who is employed in packing ore from a crusher to the tram station. He had just come from breakfast and was in the stable stalling his animals, when he heard a terrific crashing and rattling. Opening the stable door he found the outside dark and the air filled with flying wind, he slammed the stable door shut and waited a few seconds. He peered through a crack and as it grew light again up to the ore and tram house, where it a plece of overalls. Grasping it, and attempting to pull it out, he found he had hold of a man's body. Tearing away the snow and boards he pulled out the body of Gus Kraul. The body was terribly mangled and the head crushed. He then started F. C. Slemmer, it is said, was sitting at brother Charles, who told him what had happened. ployes of the mines when the crash came, and all the books of the company recording the names of those employed were destroyed. The exact number of men who were caught in the slide is not known, but there were probably not less than twenty in the bunkhouse and boarding house when they were swept away. Fortunately a large majority of the 250 miners employed in the Liberty Bell mine were either in the mine or absent in town at the time of the accident. It had been snowing for three days, and the snow and fog were so dense when the slide came down that it was utterly impossible for one to see ten feet ahead

The accident broke the telephone circuit and several hours elapsed before a messenger reached town with tidings of the disaster. All the doctors available and many citizens hurried up the mountain to lend assistance in digging out the dead and injured. Several bodies had been recovered and five injured men brought to town when a second slide came down in the path of the first, killing two more men and injuring a number of others. This was followed by two more snowslides, in which five lives were sacrificed. As the storm still continued and the work of rescue could only be carried on under the most extreme danger to the living, and as it was believed that no more of those buried under the snow could be alive, it was decided to abandon the search for bodies until it can be prosecuted with greater of the gospel.

The former received severe injuries about his lower limbs and the latter escaped uninjured. Both were carried down a distance of more than fifty feet, but managed to extricate themselves. Then looking down the hill he saw are preached, and current history, and boards and timbers sticking out of the science at fourth hand. But there is no snow and scattered about. He then went | doubt that hell is very little preached. Who of our readers can remember hearing had stood, and saw what he thought was a sermon entirely devoted to hell, its existence and its terrors? And yet it should be preached. Because, in the first place, hell exists. The testimony of our Lord should be sufficient on this toward the boarding house and met his point. It is reinforced, however, though reinforcement is not needed, by all the evidence of our reason and observation. We his desk making out the time of the em- | see many men growing worse and worse up to their dying day. We see their characters becoming absolutely fixed in evil and impenitence. Often they are unconscious of it, but we can see their punishment gathering slowly, but surely, around them, even in this life. We have no grounds in reason or revelation for expecting any change to be forced upon them in another life. Just | body. as, on contemplating the sunset of a noble career, we are irresistibly led to imagine its continuance and increase in glory forever, so, in watching the last days of a bad man, instluctively we paint the picture of eternal woe. It seems reasonable to believe in heaven. It is not our reason. but our pity and our horror, that objects to the doctrine of hell. In the second place, hell should be preached because millions are going there. The world is growing better all the time, but it is still fearfully wicked, and no one can look abroad over it with the thought of eternity in his heart, and no tremble to view the enormous mass of misery speeding recklessly to its infinite doom. In the third place, hell should be preached because "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." The love of God is the end of wisdom; fear must come first. The reason why the church's love of God is often so weak is because it is not firmly founded upon respect for His authority and awe at His majestic power. Sinners must be made to feel the terrors of the law before they will appreciate the graces

In the fourth place, even Christians need to be reminded of the peril of hell. We need to see the pit whence we were dug. We need to put more spirit into our daily prayer, "Deliver us from evil. Again, men will honor a preacher that deals with such a strong theme. Men long | ing across Europe and leaving a terrible for virile preaching, preaching that has to do frankly and forcefully with the eternal truths, and not with the surface reflections of them on current history

Finally, the church will flourish only in conviction of the exceeding sinfulness of sin. The appeal should not be: "The church needs you. See how much good you might do in the church. See how all the your pocket a bottle of "77," Dr. Humphgood people and the wise people are in the But it should be: "You need Christ. You are a poor, wretched, lost sinner. We are not advocating a return to the preaching of Jonathan Edwards, though | Humphrey's Med. Co., 61 John Street, New there were much salt in that. We do not care to have men fall swooning in our churches and women half frantic with fear. But we do urge a preaching of hell in the same measure in which Christ preached it. and in the same manner He used. VAGARIES OF THE TIDES.

Curious Currents in the Ocean and

Its Various Arms.

London Shipping World. There are as many vagaries in the waters as in the winds. Why, for instance, should three great ocean currents send their warm waters across the wide Pacific, Atlantic and across the Cape of Good Hope? There have been many theories advanced to solve the problem of their origin, but all have proved fallacious. Other and equally mysterious currents exist in well-nigh all Liberty Bell Gold Mining Company, whose parts of the world. The tides are so erration in different parts of the world that one hesitates to accept the theory that the moon controls them in all cases. It is on record that the sea has run for weeks out of the Java sea through the Straits of Sun-

da and thence back again for a like period without any perceptible rise or fall during Then there is the equatorial current that flows into the Caribbean sea, the everflowing current to the eastward around Cape Horn, the cold stream flowing from the icy regions of the north past Newfoundland and Nova Scotla and along the American coast to the extreme end of Florida, the continual current running rent running across the rocks and shoals somewhere in the vicinity of the same place, and the current which, starting half way up the China sea, runs from two to three knots abruptly off the north end of Luzon. Then we have those tidal vagaries known the world over as bores. Residents on Severn side are familiar with them, and those that run up the Hooghly and Irrawaddy rivers from side to side in a zigzag shape till they reach their limit, often tearing ships from their anchorage, originate nobody knows where or why. The rush of waters in the Bay of Fundy is nothing but a huge bore sweeping all before it up to the head of the bay till the waters have risen to the height of fifty or sixty feet. Off Southampton we have the double tides. while at Singapore it has been observed for days at a time that there has been but the one rise and fall in the twenty-four hours. The tides may be and very often appear as though they were "moon struck," but they certainly are not controlled with hard and fast rules by that or any other
